4 READ THE TEXT AND ANSWER THE QUESTIONS.

Transportation is the way people use to move from one place to another. We use different types of vehicles, like cars, buses, trains, and planes, to travel. However, there are several problems with transportation that affect the environment and our daily lives.

First, cars can cause pollution and harm the environment, but we can reduce this by using cleaner, electric cars that don't produce harmful gases. Second, traffic can be very busy, especially during rush hours. However, if we have better public transportation options, like more buses and trains, and encourage people to use them, the roads will be less crowded, making travel easier and faster for everyone.

By using these solutions, we can reduce pollution, save time, and create cities that are more friendly for everyone. If more people use public transportation and choose walking or cycling, we can make our cities cleaner, less crowded, and better for everyone to live in.
